Dear Sir:

As an owner of a $100,000 GM bond I am frustrated and I am receiving no help from Wells Fargo Financial Department. My name is Linda Lou Ridenour and I am 66 years old. My husband Martin Eugene Ridenour is 71. We are retired and were counting on the interest from this bond for our living expenses. We did everything right. We read, studied and put a little amount of money away each month. As we got older we invested in stock. As we continued to age we were shown a pie chart showing we should have more bonds than stock. On the suggestion of our Wells Fargo Financial Advisor we bought these bonds. At the time I asked if we could lose our money if GM went bankrupt. I was told they had to pay us back. Now the newspaper implies we have lost this money. I would like to object to the sale if it means that I will lose this much needed money.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Linda Lou Ridenour". The script is cursive and fluid, with the first name "Linda" being the most prominent.
